

Urban Habitats has been named Master Builder of the Year - residential.

BUILDERS SCALING NEW HEIGHTS

RENATO CASTELLO

A SOUTH Australian residential builder with a catalogue of luxurious new homes and high-end renovations has been recognised by peers as the best in the business.

Goodwood builder Urban Habitats has been named Master Builder of the Year in the residential division of the 2021 Master Builder SA's Building Excellence Awards, announced at the Adelaide Convention Centre last night.

The company's website features new builds, renovations and house extensions in Adelaide's east, inner north and Hills.

Metricon Homes won the display home builder award, family-owned Kennett Builders at Brompton won commercial builder of the year and McMahon Services won specialist contractor.

MBA SA chief executive Will Frogley said winning an award was one of the most highly sought honours in the industry.

"The building excellence awards is a time to celebrate and enjoy all the positive aspects and achievements of our vibrant industry," he said.

"This year's award winners all worked hard through a challenging time and have demonstrated an ability to achieve excellence at a world-class level."

A record 297 entrants were nominated for this year's awards.